Who am I?

I am an individual,

I am a unique me,
living to the rhythm I myself create,
laughing at the thought of being,
smiling at bittersweet memories of loves treasured, striving to overcome and then surpass the goals I set as standard.
Yet often I find myself confused.

My identity is synonymous with no other.
I mimic no one,
yet imitate all.

Shattering my mind into awareness, in the morn the clock opens my eyes to reality:

Reflected in a mirror is my peoples image,
But in my mind's eye I find:

A drop-out turned drop-in,
A future of boot camp, reveille, and war,
Friendships lost and replaced
as my circle of life becomes a sphere,
Sunrises, sunsets,
All forged together to form me.

Catching a sandwich between classes in the course of the day is commonplace to some, while novel to others.

Competition is not the goal. It merely provides incentive for the goal—the mastering of an endeavor.

Although practice makes perfect, determination is a must to achieve any given accomplishment.

In some fields the talents of one person is of utmost importance. To strive for perfection sometimes requires an atmosphere that only solitude can provide.

whirling through a blur of faces,

I find myself incorporated:

I am unable to recognize one.

Not distinguishable but jointed together,

I recognize the electricity created by many tuned to one goal.

I am enveloped by the pulsating cheer of a crowd united: "G.R.C.'s the power."

Our thoughts are not centered on ourselves, nor others,

but on an achievement.

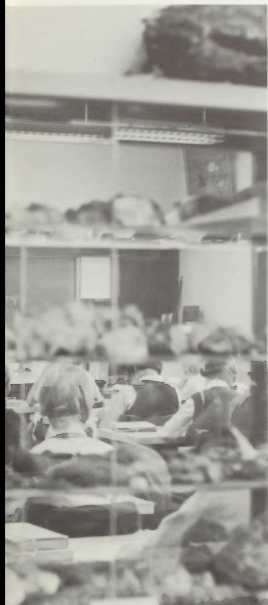

We are one.

Individuals form a unit having many different faces, but each reflecting the desire necessary for success.

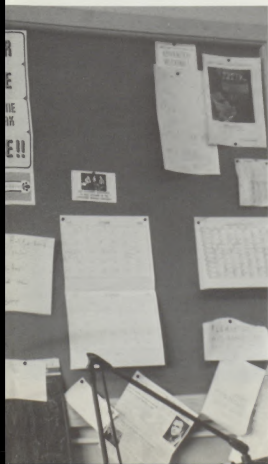

Orders, which must be given, reflect the various personalities of the Pioneer News staff.

Students in a classroom are like elements in a rock;
they are combined to form a strong unit.

Though individual, one cannot exist in solitude.

Frontier theme amplifies Pioneer Spirit

Gerold Durocz eludes Wildcat pursuers for a sizable gain.

The spirit of Clark's student body during the 1969 Homecoming Week proved the Pioneers' tremendous desire to win. Clarkites responded whole-heartedly to the various themes represented on each of the five days of the "big week." For example, the students bedecked themselves with loud and bizarre neckties, buttons, and frontier-type clothing. Also, the Senior Skit stimulated the emotions of the football team, the students, and the teachers by being both humorous and serious.

Although it rained on Homecoming Night, the spirits of Clark's boosters were not dampened, and both the Band, Twirlers, and Pom Pon Corps performed admirably in encouraging the football team.

Regardless of the Pioneer spirit, Clark lost by a narrow margin to Hammond.

Debbie Novosel symbolizes the ideal Homecoming Queen as she reigns over 1969 Homecoming activities.

Dances, fashions are vibrant

Becoming the shelves of a fashion showcase, Clark's halls held the modern dress of today's youth. Wire-framed glasses, brogues, higher-heeled spectators, and scarves added an extra touch. Longer hair and side-burns of the longest legal length (down to the earlobe) were exceedingly popular among the moles. Representing school dress, flared slacks for the boys and culottes, which the girls found more favorable over the conventional skirt, a trend toward comfort developed. Plaid and striped slacks, as well as exotic Indian garb—beads, moccasins, and armbands—turned school dress vivid.

Fast girations and on and off blinking many-colored lights created the mood. The band, Pom Pons, and the Twirler Corps presented "A Space Odyssey." Music was provided by the Telstars, complete with an organ and brass. Decorations of silvery, twinkling stars and space food of pretzels and punch represented the gaiety and imagination of Clark's dances. Sounds were loud and blaring, dancers were in constant motion, and lights were touching the inner mind. Dances were more than just school activities, they were happenings.

In constant demand for the ever-popular soul music, the World Column plays at numerous Clark dances.

Planets, stars, rockets, moons, and space food, are of the Band, Twirlers', and Pom Pons "Telstars present a Space Odyssey."

Cheryl Peterson flaunts pseudo-traditional Indian garb.

supplement knowledge with fun

Studying modern art farms at I.U., Eric Antillo applies knowledge gained during the summer.

Learning new skills, experimenting in new and old sciences, and traversing over the European and Mexican countryside developed select Clark students' summer days.

Pam pons, twirlers, and cheerleaders learned new styles, twists, and jumps at specialized camps. Dramatics drew four Clarkites to two universities. The fine arts of music and art interested two seniors while visiting and studying in the countries of Europe and in old Mexico turned four students into world travelers. Two seniors, Susie Farbes and Bob Furto, were chosen as participants in the Indiana University Honors Program which allowed them to travel to Germany and Mexico respectively. Girls' and Boys' Staters became diplomats and studied governmental procedures by electing mayors, giving campaign speeches, and making laws.

History merges with today's youth

Boarding the Erie-Lackawana trains, Clarkites journeyed to the historical eastern coast. Upset stomachs and meeting new personalities introduced Clark juniors and seniors to new experiences.

Tired and exhausted from the long journey, Clark travelers arrived in Washington D.C., and prepared to tour the city at night. Days following were filled with tours, visiting historical landmarks, and individual entertainments. Weary from all-night poker-playing sessions, tourists prepared for the trip to New York City.

Highlighting the days in New York were tours of the United Nations and the Statue of Liberty. Homesick Clarkites rode buses to Hoboken, N.J. where they boarded the train for a long journey home.

Spending a summer sightseeing and studying, Martha Durland, Barb Furta, Janice Vrlík, and Susie Forbes add to their learning experiences.

Basking in the morning sun as it rises over Mt. Vernon, travelers think of home.

The house lights are lowered and Partridge, a country man, walks to center stage to tell the tale of "Tom Jones", a play based on the novel by Henry Fielding. Tom Jones, a victim of fate, is a foundling. Raised in Somersetshire, England, he grew to be a handsome man and found himself falling in love with the girl next door, Sophia Western. But, alas, Tom is a foundling and not worthy of Sophia.

Sophia is flattered by Tom's love, he is indeed a handsome man. When the play opens Sophia is indebted to Tom when he rescued her from a runaway horse. In a meeting at Sophia's home, Tom and Sophia declare their love for each other and wish to marry. Sophia's father and aunt have other plans for her—to marry the detestable Blifil.

Sophia, in anger, leaves home with her faithful maid Honour. Upon learning that his love has fled, Tom searches for Sophia, finding many adventures upon the road and finally ending his journey in jail. Sophia rescues Tom from the English jailhouse. The grateful Tom and the lovely Sophia are then united happily forever after. The curtain falls. The lights raise. The play is over.

After rescuing Sophia from a runaway horse, Tom pleads for her hand, a task which is most rewarding.

In his search for Sophia, Tom visits the charming and rich Lady Bellaston.

Baldy facing the highwayman, Tam protects a fellow traveler who, unknown to him, is his mother.

In the courtroom, Tam begs Sophia's forgiveness for his unfaithfulness and pledges his love to her.

Eminent Justice Dawling panders the fate of Jones as Partridge explains Tam's unlucky life.

As Squire Allworthy lays dying, the few who have come to comfort him gather around to hear his wishes.

Calvin Coolidge comes to Clark

Belittled by poet-writer Paul Barringer, Alice Blake's love letter turns into an impersonal composition.

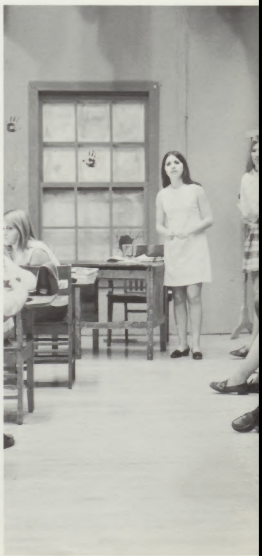

"Up the Down Staircase," under the direction of Mr. Richard Carpio, brought to the stage talents of the Junior Class.

Miss Sylvia Barrett is introduced in Act One as a beginning teacher at Calvin Coolidge High School in New York City. Sylvia finds teaching very difficult, especially when a member of the faculty, J. J. McHabe, appears. Mr. Paul Barringer, a handsome teacher sought after by all the female students, focuses his attention for fleeting moments on Miss Barrett, and romance blooms.

With the opening of Act Two, Sylvia gets into trouble for defending the ill-disciplined Joe Ferone. In spite of Sylvia's pleas to remain in school, Joe is intent on dropping out—Sylvia announces her resignation. As the play ends, both Joe and Miss Barrett remain at Calvin Coolidge High.

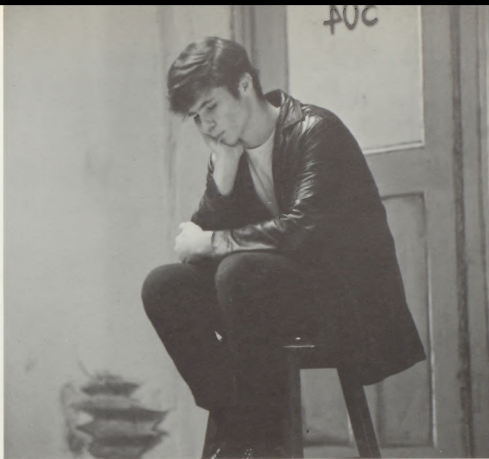

Listening through the keyhole, Lou Martin hears J. J. McHabe discipline Miss Barrett.

Despite students giggling and passing jokes, Miss Barrett teaches her class "First Impressions."

Trials and tribulations of an administration weigh heavily on disciplinarian J. J. McHabe.

Not worrying about the day's classes, delinquent Joe Ferone takes a nap during eighth period English.

Prom opens door to Seniors' final activity-graduation

As the Junior-Senior Prom drew near, Seniors realized their high school careers were coming to an end.

White trellises and flower gardens greeted guests as they arrived at the Sherwood Country Club to enter "This Magic Moment," the 1969 Clark Prom. After-prom party-goers had dinner at Tiebels Restaurant and listened to the modern beat of The Mauds and The World Column.

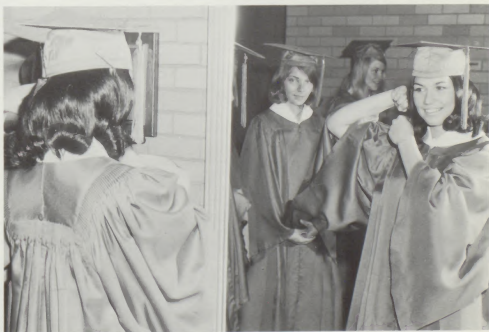

Laughing in the hallways, crying at homecoming, cheering teams to victory—all are memories to be treasured as the wheels of time turn and another class graduates from George Rogers Clark High School. For the final time the Class of '69 was united. It was the last time for some to see friends with whom they went to games, dances, and parties. After twelve years of work, young men and women received their diplomas. The questioning minds were ready to become individuals in a boundless society, ready to face its problems.

With the climax of four years at her fingertips, graduate Jackie Ellis proudly receives her diploma.

Students widen awareness through English

On trial this year, an open reading lab presented Clark students with the opportunity to increase their reading skills. Students were permitted to take advantage of reading lab facilities during lunch hours and study halls when no regular classes were scheduled.

Juniors concentrated on the American scene in English. Transcendentalism and Henry David Thoreau, witchcraft and Arthur Miller, and satire, local color, witty humor and Mark Twain, were the distinctive and initial ingredients in the collage studied.

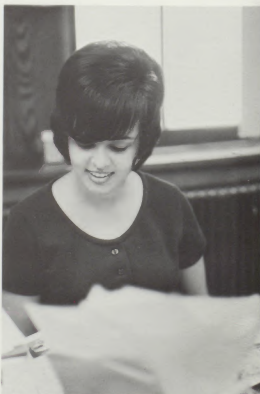

1984 in 1970? Reading George Orwell's 1984 and William Shakespeare's Macbeth, students envisioned the past as well as the future. Sixth hour Senior English students discussed patriotism and wrote a sequence used in The Fall Choral Concert.

A Saturday lost in the jungle of books for a term paper due in a week was a common situation to English students throughout the year, as themes and term papers were required for all classes. Paperbacks stashed in back pockets were common.

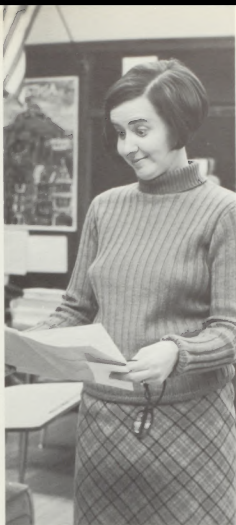

Mrs. Huber cries, "Save those pennies!" as she adds to the room's collection of paperback books.

MR. GEORGE MUIR . . . B.S., Eastern Illinois University, M.S., University of Illinois . . . Freshman English, Communications . . . Pioneer News and Powder Horn Advisor . . . Fifteenth year at Clark.

MRS. CAROL HUBER . . . B.S., M.A., Indiana University . . . Basic and Developmental Reading . . . Reading Club Sponsor . . . ninth year at Clark.

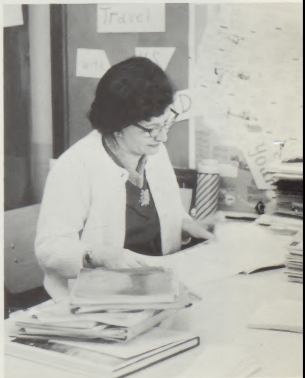

MRS. KATHRYN SCHWINGENDORF ... B.A., Indiana University ... Senior English ... Pam-pon, Flag Corps Sponsor ... fifth year at Clark.

A chuckle shows that Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales" furnishes Bob Walters with a bit of humor.

With pencil poised, Fred Spalnik tunes his mind to the major details of a lecture.

MISS DOLORES McCAMPBELL ... B.S., Indiana State University, M.A., Columbia University ... English, English Department Chairman ... FTA Sponsor ... twentieth year at Clark.

MRS. DORIS SNIDER . . . A.B., Indiana University . . .

MISS MARY ROZICH . . . A.B., M.S., Indiana University . . .
Junior English . . .

After recording her speech, Pam Bencur is able to analyze it with the help of Kevin Martin.

Man's capability in oral communication is a tremendous asset. The English Department, recognizing the importance of this asset, gave the student instruction in his basic tool—speech.

Incoming freshmen found emphasis on grammar and literature in their classes. Reading the novels Green Mansions and Les Miserables, the lives of accomplished writers and abstract ideas were brought into focus.

Glaring eyes, isolated snickers, and a yawning teacher were among the numerous terrors encountered by junior Platos and Websters in sophomore English classes. Stage fright and butterflies, contracted by the beginning students, were combated with experience and involvement.

MRS. PATRICIA (WALKER) BOASE ... B.A., North Central College ... Freshman, Senior English ... Forensics, Y-Teens Sponsor ... second year at Clark.

MRS. TERESA GEHRING ... B.S., Indiana University ... Sophomore English, Speech, Speech Arts ... Speech and Debate, Forensics Club, and Twirling Sponsor ... third year at Clark.

While presenting a speech of her summer experiences, Pot Kantal learns communication and language skills.

MRS. LILLIAN WILCOX . . . A.B., Hastings College, University of Nebraska, Indiana University . . . Latin Club Sponsor . . . tenth year at Clark.

MRS. CHARLOTTE SKELTON . . . B.A., University of Illinois . . . French . . . French Club, Freshman Class Sponsor . . . first year at Clark.

MRS. MARIA ENCINOSA . . . B.A., M.S., Indiana State University . . . Spanish . . . Spanish Club Sponsor . . . sixth year at Clark.

MISS KATHY MAZUR . . . A.B., Indiana University . . . Spanish . . . Spanish Club Sponsor . . . first year at Clark.

MISS LYNNE ACKERMANN ... B.A., University of Illinois ... German ... German Club, Sophomore Class, Cheerleader Sponsor ... second year at Clark.

East meets west in languages

Designing a Roman theater, grappling in the dark through the many tenses of German, making a five to seven page critique of a French-born author, and demonstrating the makings of a tortilla (and eating it!) challenged foreign language students.

A chance to explore Europe for five weeks during Summer '69 was given to third year Latin students Martha Durland and Janice Vrlík. German student Susie Farbes and Spanish student Barb Furta spend eight weeks living with families in Germany and Mexico where they spoke only German and Spanish. Being foreigners in strange countries gave the students a new and worthwhile experience to treasure.

Roman chariots racing down the rocky roads of ancient Pompeii display Latin class projects.

In a switch from routine, Jackie Colbert reads a seemingly interesting German magazine.

Student power receives impetus by mastering equations

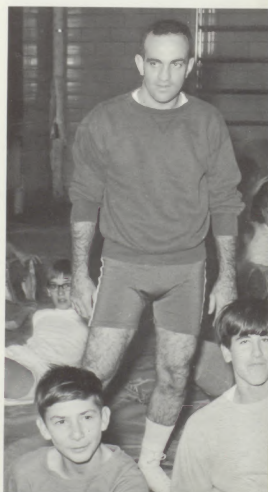

34

Leaving behind the placid atmosphere of summer vacation, algebra, geometry, and trigonometry students were rushed into the worlds of Descartes, Newton, Euclid, and Pythagoreas. Theorems, laws, and seemingly endless equations were matched by means, but when such mathematical necessities were finally understood, the student no doubt took great pride in his absorption power.

Through the use of projectors, diagrammatic models, and dimensional constructions, teachers strived to bridge the gap between misunderstanding and thorough enlightenment.

Failing to find a solution to his problem, Mott Kaplan resorts to fellow pupil Dione Jefchok's suggestion.

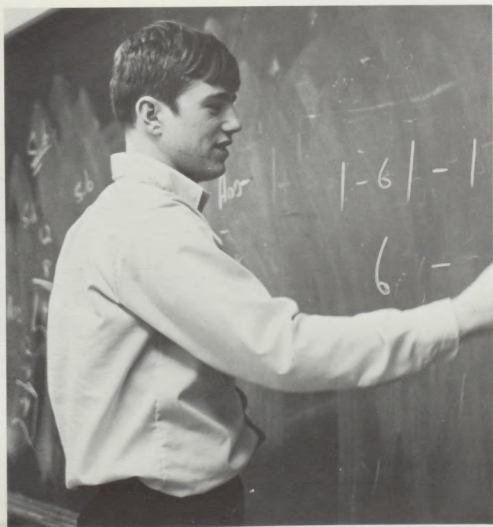

MR. CHARLES STUBER ... B.S., Wheaton College, M.S., Purdue University ... Moth, Geometry ... Wrestling Coach ... third year at Clark.

MR. EMERSON ALDRICH . . . B.S., M.S., Indiana State University . . . Algebra, Advanced Algebra, Math Department Chairman . . . C-Club Co-sponsor . . . twenty-third year at Clark.

MISS DOROTHY WALLACE . . . B.S., M.S., Indiana State University . . . Freshman Algebra, Math Analysis . . . eighth year at Clark.

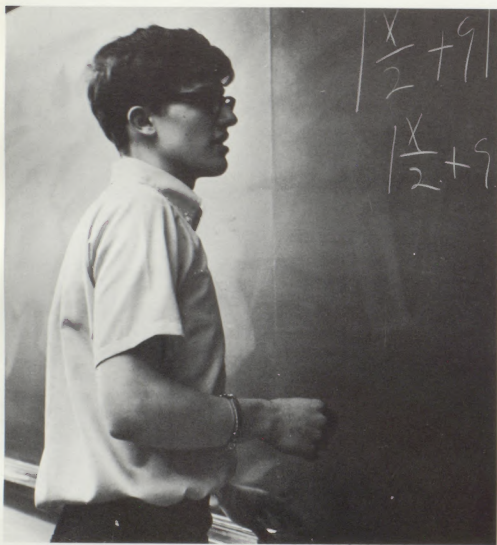

After many erasures, Dave Turner works toward perfection in solving an absolute value equation.

Science introduced the technicalities that governed the universe and man in his universe. The moon, which is within the sphere of man's touch and influence, has produced circumstances associated with solar system beginnings. Encompassing these circumstances, Earth Science students followed space flights from blast-off to splash-down.

Chemistry and Physics classes advanced to more specialized instruction. Experiments performed in the chemistry lab began with simple chemical changes found in everyday life and progressed to processes employed in the factories of the community. With the advanced math courses taken previously, Physics students combined science and math in their studies. Why situations occur in nature and how these could be solved—objective of the Physics course—gave students aim at answering occurrences of the nonliving world concerned with matter and energy of life.

Commercialists fuse concepts

The finish of one decade and the start of another strongly suggests to both student and teacher that a base be recognized for maximum use of yesterday's experiences to solve tomorrow's problems. Clark's business department promoted concepts of the world of commerce through offering to help the student understand basic economic principles of a free enterprise system. Courses in general business and consumer problems were two in a variety of ten different course areas of business classes from Advanced Shorthand to Typing 3. They offered opportunity to see much of the world of commerce—its demands, expectations, general problems and structure for achieving better communication.

Music: medium is the message

Individual lessons and group practices helped students in the three divisions of the music department attain perfection for concerts and extra-curricular contests.

Mr. Matusiak joined the Clark faculty this year and directed the Orchestra, stressing technique, tonation, and rhythm on stringed instruments. He also assisted Mr. Church by instructing Mixed Chorus.

The Choral Department again had the largest enrollment of any elective course offered at Clark. Major choral works by Handel, along with many of Mr. Church's own compositions, were performed in concert and in outside engagements for organizations.

Intricate routines entertained crowds as the band performed at home football games. The aim of the band was to develop performance ability in concerts as well as marching and to develop desire for excellence.

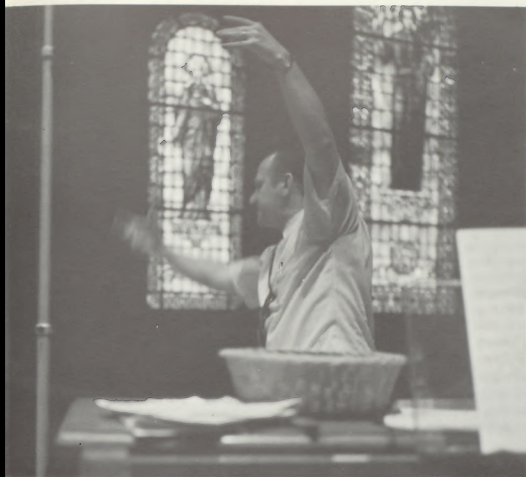

The talent of the three music divisions were joined together in December when a Christmas album was recorded and sold.

Shop students combined safety, skill, and wood to produce such useful items as bowls, bookends, and benches. Extensive furniture repair work helped train future handymen, even though these students received several cuts and pounded thumbs.

Beginning by sketching bricks, mechanical drawing students learned how proportion and accuracy relate to the construction of blueprints and their very homes.

Doing their own thing, art students become new people and create fantastic designs and pictures. Working with everything from tooth picks, to pencil, to finger paints, to chalk, these students became the Picassos of Clark.

Art teacher, Miss Norobel Morrison, encourages her pupils ingenuity as they transform straight lines or broken glass and junk into psychedelic figures. Christmas ornaments and seasonal decorations brightened the halls as students displayed works of art. The workshop atmosphere of comfort and relaxation in the classroom aided students concentration and work.

Changing yearbook reflects

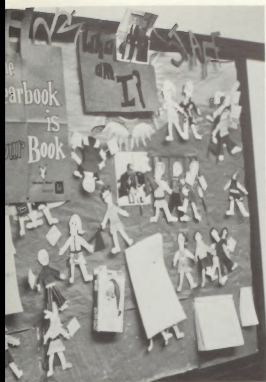

Powder Horn Editor, Jan Jackim, concentrated on change for the 1970 yearbook. A duotone of orange and photo-silhouettes were used in the first signature and on divider pages. An axis-cluster, three-column layout was set with more pictures and less copy. The senior and underclass sections also featured select candid pictures of those classes. "Who Am I? I am an individual, moving through a blur of faces, emerging pieced: a collage," the theme, was developed in eight pages and was carried out through the book in the features employed. Senior activities were placed in a separate section. Lack of cooperation among staff members hindered production; deadlines were not always met.

Disappointment shadows activities

Initiating the year's activities before September, Student Council worked in co-operation with Coach Peterson to sponsor the Blue-White football game. As the regular season opened, Council planned a car caravan of boosters to Munster for the night's clash. Plans fell short due to the refusal of a police escort.

Homeroom representatives were chosen, and the activity period meetings were held. The old council constitution was reviewed and revised. The PTSA, Parent, Teacher, Student Association, was initiated. During homecoming Council boosted spirit week. In December the council bought Christmas trees for the halls. January brought a roller skating party at the Hammond Roller Dome. Though turnout was poor, those attending enjoyed themselves. A new dress code was reviewed but remained the same.

with humility, lose with pride

Leading the Pioneer Varsity football squad toward victory, the Clark fans cheer on.

Going to Smith Walbridge Cheering Camp, earning funds making popcorn for home football games, designing and selling paper flowers at the Food Fair, taking buses to Junior Varsity basketball games, and teaching students "Hey Now" and the Sonic Boom added up to make an active spirit-boosted year for the Varsity Cheerleaders. Setting the example for school spirit with never-ending enthusiasm, Karin Talley, Terri Wagner, Laura Walker, and Nancy Zrenchik led the student body in cheers at pep assemblies and games. Rallying the efforts of Junior Varsity teams were Janine Hamco, Evie Kampa, Sheila Kinnane, and Carol Palikan. Working closely this year, Varsity and Jr. Varsity Cheerleaders combined their efforts in routines and mounts using all eight girls. Cheering the freshman basketball team to a tournament title were the Freshman Cheerleaders Sheryl Finkelstein, Patty Hlebasko, Sue Nowicki, and Gloria Vrbancic. Before the last game of the tournament was played, the cheerleaders constructed a paper-covered hoop which the victorious players crashed through.

Practice, perfection, mark choral group's performance

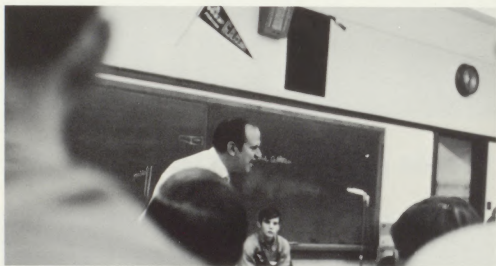

Attaining seats through competition in the All-State Choir, Kathy Bullian and Gary Navatny rehearse music for their upcoming concert.

Beginning with the annual Fall Concert, the Concert Choir, Serenaders, and Girls' Ensemble marked another year with talent and ambition, achieved through countless hours of concentrated rehearsals.

Seasonal Greetings were extended with the aid of Band, Orchestra, and choruses at the Christmas Concert. At this time, the Serenaders also performed outside engagements including programs for the Kiwanis Club and on WJOB radio station.

The Spring Concert offered still another opportunity for the choral groups to display their talents. During all concerts both traditional and popular songs, as well as original compositions by Mr. Church, were enjoyed by the audiences.

"Lord, Love an Ugly Duck", an original musical adapted by Richard Jaegar, was presented by the Concert Choir. A new look was introduced in the production of the play: both the crews and the speaking parts were double cast to give students varied experiences in show production.

Having trouble with the bass voices in the Concert Choir, Mr. Church makes his point clear.

Orchestra flaunts modern music

The Orchestra was a truly special organization this year. Under the direction of Mr. David Matusiak, traditions were set aside. Modern music as well as new techniques made the Orchestra a favorite group around Clark School.

The greatest change took place when traditional serious music was abandoned and the Orchestra played selections from "Hair," Born Free, Magnificent Seven, and Goin' Out of My Head. Two concerts, Winter and Spring, featured lively music played by an inspired group.

Many spare hours were spent initiating plans for Clark School's first tour. Accompanying the Orchestra were the Serenaders and Pom-Poms performing to music supplied by the Orchestra. "Sounds of the 60's" was planned for early May along with the Spring Concert late in May.

Band marches despite frost, heat, rain

Forming a covered wagon at homecoming, a jet airplane to honor veterans on Veteran's Day, and the Clark "C" were some of many intricate formations demonstrated at game halftimes as Band members stepped smartly to the commands of senior drum major Mark Janas. Mark, along with various other Band members, fashioned routines to be performed by the Marching Band.

The 1969-1970 Band was a great morale booster for this year's Pioneers. The cadence, "Tuff," and "Celebrate" roused Clark sports fans to frenzied excitement as close games became victories or bitter disappointments. Pep band played at all home basketball games and added music for performances by the Pom-pom girls.

Lost music, broken reeds, and lost minute instructions were all common to the 80 members of the Band prior to every performance. Appearing in the annual fall Concert, along with the Orchestra and Choral department, highlighted concert performances by the Clark Band.

Artistic talents bedeck halls

Developing the whole student was the goal as Art Club attempted to provide a means of expression outside the classroom.

Under the sponsorship of Miss Morrison, club members devised original artistic creations, utilizing unique materials and methods.

Beginning members become familiar with ceramics through lectures, while juniors and seniors broadened to more advanced art forms by working individually on projects.

Resulting efforts embellished the halls, and the Christmas spirit was displayed through self-made ornaments.

win over Whiting

While fellow Pioneers block his path free of Tech defenemen, Marty Shimola scores.

A delay in practices resulting from the teachers' strike of late August left the Pioneers somewhat unprepared to meet their out-of-city and thus unhampered opponent, Munster. Disappointment shadowed the Clark locker room following the next two encounters, but spirits rose as the Pioneers were victorious over East Chicago Washington and Hammond Gavit. A Homecoming loss to Hammond High did not lower morale as the next game found the Pioneers rallying to beat Tech in the final minutes of play. After being defeated by the Roosevelt Rough Riders, Clark Whaloped cross-town rival Whiting by a score of 21-7.

Distinguishing himself as a team workhorse, Joe Steliga showed himself both athletically and scholastically. His leadership was exemplified by his position as National Honor Society president and his Boys' State appointment. On the field his versatility and determination placed him in the position of team captain. He was voted Most Valuable Player, adding to the respect of the coaches that of his teammates. To the recognition received at home was added state-wide acknowledgement with his selection as guard for the United Press International All-State first string team.

Gymnasts capture state honors

Gymnastics Team—Coach Hruskovich, B. Loera, F. Sakso, S. Markovich, J. Kanyur, P. Lund, B. Hicko, J. Shields, Coach Macey.

Under the first year coaching of Miss Macey, the gymnastics team composed of a record of 2-5-1. The team boasted such veterans as John Shields (tramp) and Phil Lund (rings) along with such newcomers as Brod Hicko and Don King. The gymnasts won two meets both over Lowell, while losing to Rich Central, Thornridge, Crown Point twice, and Concord. In the state meet at Indianapolis' Warren Central, John Shields finished second on the trampoline, and seventh in tumbling, while Phil Lund notched a third on the rings. An injury to Dave Hargett, a three event man, resulted in a loss for the team also.

DeLuna smashes Harrier record

Finishing their regular season with three wins, Coach Shields' Harriers posted a record of 6-9. Highlighting the season was handing Whiting a dual defeat by identical scores of 15-50, and a record shattering run by Javier DeLuna with a time of 9:56 for the two mile, a second faster than the record he set last year. A shin injury to DeLuna riddled the team with poor showings. In the sectionals, the Harriers placed seventh out of twenty competing schools.

As seconds sped by, Joe Lampa increases his lead over opponents, striving for better placement.

After a race has been run, Larry Koch awaits his timing and the team's total score.

Doublesmen reach quarter finals

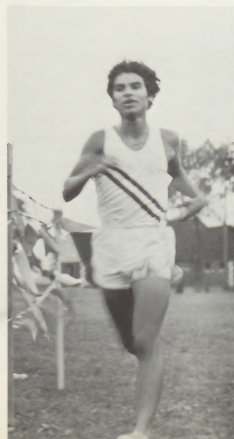

Despite a losing record, 1969 was a winning year for Clark racketmen. The doubles team of Chuck Steffel and Rich Skurka was successful in reaching the quarter finals of the sectional tournament, which was better than any previous effort in the school's history. The first and second singlesmen combined their skills to defeat Morton, E.C. Roosevelt, and Gavit. Defeated by a duo from Munster, the winning streak was halted. A disappointing regular season ended with a 4-5 record. Singlesmen Rich Skurka, Mark Kalwinski, and Chuck Steffel won over half their matches, becoming the team's strength. Rotating members of the doubles team, Rich Chovanec, Dan Kaplan, Paul Welnight, and Greg Tangalos were substituted to gain further experience for their upcoming seasons.

Pioneers win sectional!

For the first time in 27 years, Clark's Pioneers won the Hammond Sectional. After a quick start with wins over Lake Central and S.B. Washington, the Pioneers dropped three in a row to Harace Mann, Valparaiso, and Highland. A win over Hobart evened the tally for the '69 half of the season. In the Haliday Tourney, the Pioneers beat Noll but were upset by Gavitt. A win over Chicago Washington started off the '70 season. A loss to S.B. Adams, ranked eleventh in the state by UPI, was tilted by a two-game winning streak over Hammond High and Munster. A narrow loss to Tech broke the streak, but the Pioneers bounced back against Gavitt and Whiting. Three losses preceded wins over T.F. North and Griffith.

In the Hammond Sectional, Clark drew Whiting for the first game and trounced them 73-41. The Gavitt-Clark clash a few days later saw the Pioneers win 90-60. A game the same night was won by a score of 78-65 over Munster and the championship was captured. In the regional, the Pioneers knocked off Lake Central, but fell at the hands of E.C. Roosevelt, ranked number one in the state.

Underclassmen climax with trophies

Finishing the Junior Varsity season 12-9, the Settlers climaxed the year with the Holiday Tourney championship. The Settlers split their first six games, defeating Lake Central, Horace Mann, and Valparaiso. The best part of the year came when the Settlers defeated Tech, Morton, and E.C. Roosevelt to capture the Holiday Tourney trophy. Starting off 1970, the Settlers' victims were Chicago Washington, Hammond High, Whiting, Morton, Chesterton, and T.F. North. A deficit of one point in the Clark-Griffith clash ended in the Settlers defeat and the end of their season.

Making their first mark in basketball, the Homesteaders recorded a 12-4 slate. The year started with a pair of wins over T.F. North and Whiting. Wins over Tech and Gavit were sandwiched between three losses to the East Chicago schools, Washington and Roosevelt, and Lake Central. The Homesteaders then won eight out of their last nine games, including a tournament championship, defeating Tech in the title match.

Antilla undefeated in regular season

Varsity grapplers started off the season by dropping their first three matches and finishing on the better end 4-5-1. After losses to Gavitt, Hammond High, and E.C. Washington, the grapplers nipped Tech on the last match. Another loss to Noll and a tie to Morton set the grapplers up for three wins over Whiting, Griffith, and E.C. Roosevelt, with a loss to Crown Point. Eric Antilla won the Hobart and Hammond Invitational tournaments, but was upset in the finals of the sectional with a record of 19-1.

Symbolizing the prestige in a win, these trophies await their champion owners.

Records break as individuals shine

Records fell as Clark's track team broke seven records, six individual and one team mark. The records that fell were: the distance medley team of Carroll Sievers, Jerry Stasney, Javier DeLuna, and Bob Strabavy ran the race in 8:33.9. The individual marks broken were the 880 yards by Javier DeLuna, the mile by Jerry Stasney, and the 2-mile by Carrall Sievers in the indoor season. The outdoor records were the 880 and the mile by Larry Koch and Jerry Stasney and the Freshman Team 2-mile by Jim Motter.

Outstanding performances were turned in by underclassmen. In the indoor city track meet, the Frash-Saph team placed second. Claude Holifield, competing in the mile run, ended the season undefeated.

Jim Pint follows the action of other Clark athletes, as they, in their own moments, compete.

Determination shows in the face of Bruce Jendreas as he sprints out the blocks against Valpo.

Stickmen salvage three wins

Taking his turn at home plate, Henry Paraky slams a base hit to left field against Whiting.

Although spured by the return of nine lettermen, the hardballers completed the 1969 season with a disappointing record of 3-9-2. Ending on top of only Tech, Gavitt, and Hobart, the stickmen last twice to Whiting. After two ties to Lowell and Munster, Clark lost a night game at Block Stadium against E.C. Washington. With a comeback in the last inning, the hardballers threatened the Morton Governors, but the drive ended with Clark again on the short end. In the Sectional playings, a loss was registered by Noll against Clark.

Individual efforts highlight season

In order to out-manuever three Hammand High defenders, Frank Sakso expends effort and desire to win.

In spite of a less than impressive record of one win, four losses, and two ties, the soccer squad showed great ability. Outstanding individual play complimented the team's efforts. Chris Spanburg was voted the team's Most Valuable Player for his exemplary determination. Since much of the starting line-up was composed of underclassmen, and experienced seniors, prospects for a successful team in the future seem most probable.

Ability reflected in "C"

Providing service to the school, C-Club, Clark's lettermen organization, promoted activities. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Backen, members sold programs and ushered at home games. The club raised spirit by forming a "C" in the sectional cheering block.

The C-Club Sweetheart was crowned at their annual dance. Proceeds from the dance helped pay for the annual sports banquet in May during which trophies for Most Valuable Player and sportsmanship were awarded.

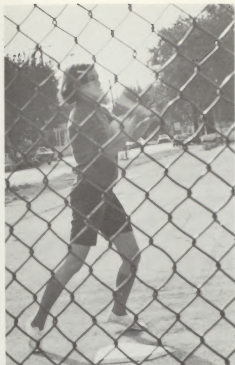

As a means of orientation for new members, Girls' Athletic Club sponsored its annual get acquainted picnic in the fall.

Sophomore, junior, and senior girls who majored in two sports and were initiated members of the club, earned points towards their numerals, manograms, and letters by participation in bowling, swimming, and various other sports.

The year was highlighted by the presentation of awards and announcement of next year's officers at the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet.

'Reflections' mirrors glimmerings of last dance

Outstanding ever since they come to Clark as freshmen, the cry of the seniors should have been, "Look out, here we come!", since the enrollment was a record breaking 289 students. This was just a start. Greenies showed determination by sponsoring their first class dance, "Color Us Green", and by placing second in the Student Council Field Day activities.

As sophomores, the Class of 1970 started off with a first place homecoming float. Class rings, the "Supermarket Sweep," and Service Day were highpoints of their second year at Clark.

Moving up to their junior year, they made bigger and better accomplishments, one being the Junior-Senior Prom. Placing only second to the seniors in homecoming float competition and the yell contest, juniors vowed to try harder to make their senior year their best.

Seniors took on the responsibility of heading school organizations and publications. The Class of 1970 took a first place for the homecoming yell contest and another first for their class float. Graduation brought happiness, separated friends, and opened the door to the future.

Amid confusions of their last homecoming, the Seniors attempted "SCALP"ing the Wildcats.

Leadership emerges as Navta, Hoover chosen Girls' Staters

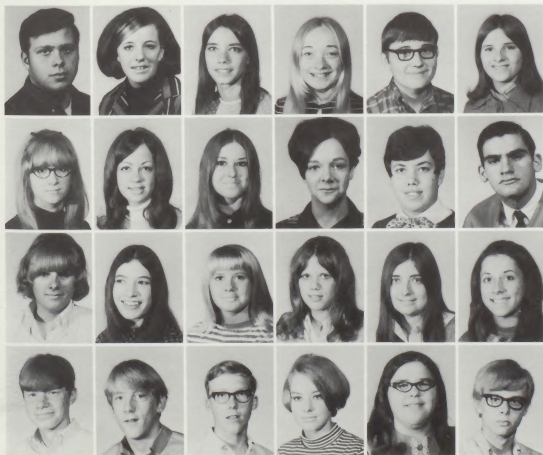

Homecoming was a major factor in drawing the Junior Class together. Their float, "Blast Dem Cats," received much support from class members and merited a second-place ribbon.

In anticipation of the 1970 Prom, the class of 1971 started the year by formulating plans to raise funds. At the suggestion of class sponsors Mr. Watkins and Mr. Hriso, the class dance was held without theme and decorations to save money. To insure a working balance, class dues of $1.50 were collected from members.

The Junior-Senior Prom was held on May 22, at the Dorchester Inn. Couples danced and were serenaded by the music of the Hal Morris Orchestra until midnight. The Nickel Bag, a rock group from the University of Illinois, highlighted the After-Prom Party.

Sophs gain status

By constructing their entry in Homecoming competition, the Sophomore Class' "TP Those Wildcats" earned second place honors. Jan Davidson represented the Class of 1972 as attendant to the queen.

In the tradition of Clark sophomores, class rings were purchased and received before January. The annual class dance, "Wishin' and Hopin'," was sponsored, featuring the Muttanbourg Court Chip.

Frosh number 288

The Freshman Class, with assistance from its sponsors, Mrs. Skelton and Mr. Kostopoulos, started the school year by electing an initial set of class officers. Combining chicken wire, papier-mache, flowers, and paint, freshmen sculptured their Homecoming float "Gut the Cats."

Gracing the Queen's Court was Sheryl Finkelstein, freshman attendant.

Raising money for their future prom, the Freshman Class held a dance featuring the Hartford Convention.

Novice superintendent slammed by teachers' strike

The proposed merger of Clark High and Hammand High schools remained just that—a proposal—while the union of the two schools remained questionable.

Succeeding Dr. Oliver Rapp as Superintendent of the Hammand Public Schools was Dr. Robert L. Medcalf. Taking the Hammand position, Dr. Medcalf had previously held the post of Superintendent of Greater Clark County Schools of Jeffersanville, Indiana.

Threatening to postpone the start of school in September was a teachers' strike that began in June, 1969 with a walkout. A settlement three weeks later revised the salary schedule to the teachers' advantage.

Injecting enthusiasm into the entire school, Mr. Durwood D. Lackey serves as both principal and Pioneer.

Superintendent of Hammond's public schools, Dr. Robert Medcalf, assumes his new position.

Teachers picket school in an attempt to make the community aware of their salary disputes.

Mr. Paul Guiden, Head Counselor, schedules juniors for the National Merit Qualifying Test.

Recording another detention, Dean of Students Mr. Michael Hriso keeps his ninth hour file up to date.

Being responsible for freshman and sophomores, Miss Doris Myers signs a pass before homeroom.

Counseling sophomores and juniors, Mr. Forrest Welch prepares a schedule of the upcoming semester.

Counselors project dreams

Guidance Department bulletin board issues a call to all interested in attending Indiana colleges.

Dean of Students Mr. Hriso concentrated on the discipline of students and the dress code. Girls were permitted to wear slacks when the temperature dipped below fifteen degrees; boys grew their hair longer with parental discretion the modifying element.

Under the guidance of Mr. Stavros, seniors completed their course of study. Useless study halls were eliminated through late homeroom and early dismissal programs.

Mr. Welch directed the junior class, while he and Miss Myers teamed to supervise the sophomores and freshmen.

Dean of Curriculum Mr. Joseph Esterhay prepares a schedule for the upcoming school year's courses.

Taking over the position of Senior Counselor this year, Mr. Steve Stavros makes a schedule correction.

Personnel supplement background services

The extensive facilities of the library provided students and teachers with countless references for research papers, themes, book reports, and out of class assignments. Because of study hall assignments, oftentimes the library was closed.

While the cafeteria remained one of relaxation, its staff continued to prepare tasty and nutritious meals on the government surplus program.

From an upset stomach caused by an upcoming test, to a sliver in a finger, the nurse's days were as diverse as a student's imagination.

After the final bell sounded it remained for the janitors and janitresses to return the school to proper order.

Announcements to be typed, money to be deposited, and questions to be answered were only a few of the chores secretaries performed daily in the main office.

Despite successive activity days, the Mrs. Laura Carlson, Joannito Barr, Lindo Muscarella, and Shirley Allen retain their cheerful dispositions.

Filled mailboxes belonging to teachers await their owners and the start of a new day.

Working behind the scenes, the cafeteria staff cleans up after the lunch hours.

School Nurse Mrs. Florence Miller earnestly inoculates Principal Mr. Lockey against tuberculosis.

Long after the final student has gone, a janitor remains to prepare for the next day's schedule.

Pausing at the main desk, Librarians Mrs. Barbara Dobak and Mrs. Ruth Rudser check out books for their own enjoyment.

AN OPPORTUNITY TO SERVE

An opportunity to serve awaits industrious young men and women at Northern Indiana Public Service Company. As one of the top gas and electric distribution utilities in the United States, NIPSCO is constantly looking for new processes and methods of efficient operation. These include atomic power generation, extra high voltage transmission, underground electric distribution, computerized system planning, underground storage of natural gas, community analyses and electronic data processing.

Ready to grow with a growing company?

IN AN ATMOSPHERE OF GROWTH

NIPSCO is one of the highest-paying utilities in the State of Indiana. Its attractive employee benefit package—tuition refund plan, vacations, holidays, life insurance, comprehensive medical insurance, pensions, etc.—provides an atmosphere for individual growth. Fifteen leading colleges and universities are strategically located throughout its service area with others available in the greater Chicago area. Drop in. We'll be glad to talk jobs with you.

An outward show of confusion, mounting toward deadlines, belie a core of yearbook organization.

With layouts to complete and deadlines to meet, editor Jan Jackim often found herself working late.

Our question, 'Who am I?', is answered

In presenting a picture of this year, 1970, there are many special persons to thank.

Picture schedules often disrupted classes, with frenzied teachers wondering when it all would end. But they patiently bore with me, and I'd like to thank the faculty and administrators. Yet, I feel this book is their book too, and to produce it, experiences both good and bad must be tolerated.

Root Photographers captured the school's movement through their pictures, thus enabling me to paint our picture. I thank them.

Always present, Mr. Muir sponsored and advised me through long hours of work and worry.

Thanks to the people who worked and to those who just wanted their picture taken.

I learn from, live with, and become other people through association, feeding on ideas, opinions, likes and dislikes, until I lose myself in the identities of others. Yet, I emerge from this confusion to form an identity: my identity.

I grasp at my identity, stumbling over shattered impressions, picking up tarnished dreams. Yet, I retain this identity until I needn't ask who I am; I am an individual, whirling through a blur of faces, emerging pieced: a collage.
